Experience

Lake Country DockHounds / Broadcaster, Director of Broadcast, Salesman

May 2023 - Present, Oconomowoc, WI

Immediately following graduation, I started my professional broadcasting career in the American Association of Professional Baseball with the DockHounds. I became their first full-time broadcaster, made sure the broadcasts at home ran smoothly, created content about the team, and traveled for all road games. Seeing just about every meaningful pitch in franchise history, I was able to seamlessly share the stories of Lake Country baseball and our great players to the fans & families.

Following the 2024 season, I joined the DockHounds full-time in the ticket sales department with a primary focus on schools. In my first season of selling, I sold out our Education Day games during the opening home stand, with one operating at 120% capacity. This earned me the opportunity to sell remotely from home in San Diego with an expanded role. My school ticket prices went down, for some games by as much as 200%, but I hit my goal for a second consecutive season, 2/2 to start my selling career.

San Diego Padres / Spring Training Complex Assistant

February 2024 - April 2024

Relocating for 2024 spring training, I worked on dozens of different tasks that ranged from organizing rooms to giving fan and family member tours in a fast paced environment while working long hours on a daily basis.

East Village Times / Staff Writer and Podcaster

September 2019 - April 2024

East Village Times is an online publication that covers San Diego sports. I write about the San Diego Padres and later created a podcast, which led me to be the co-host and producer of our big Padres podcast, which has guests such as The Athletic's Keith Law and Padres HOFer Randy Jones as guests.

Blaze Radio(ASU student Radio) / PxP Broadcaster & Show Host

August 2019 - Spring '23, ASU

Broadcasted softball, baseball, basketball, and football with Blaze. Hard work and relationships led me to become Broadcast Director senior year. Co-hosted three live shows with friends about baseball, football, and basketball.
